HOT HOLLYWOOD

When the duchess (Feb. 18) delivers, Buckingham Palace will fire off a tweet, says a source.

Kate (in a Sportmax coat) also visited the Emma Bridgewater ceramics factory in Stoke-on-Trent (below) Feb. 18 to see a mug designed for the EACH charity.

SHOWING & GLOWING!

Royal BABY WATCH

Go to usmagazine.com for breaking baby news and livestream video.

In her seventh month of pregnancy, Duchess Kate, 33, isn't home bellyaching. Revealing her bump in a $179 Seraphine frock, the wife of Prince William, 32, played with toddlers at Cape Hill Children's Centre for vulnerable kids in Smethwick, England, February 18. Recovered from her severe morning sickness, the mom of Prince George, 19 months, due in late April, "wants to continue working right up to the birth," says a close source. "Kate is feeling great and relaxed. She's more prepared this time." So is her staff: To satiate cravings, her chauffeured Range Rover has been stocked with mint imperials and Werther's Originals!

KRISTEN BELL

Protective Mommy

Anti-vaxxers don't have a shot at cradling Kristen Bell's kids. "We simply said [to loved ones], 'You have to get a whooping cough vaccination if you are going to hold our baby,' " the mom of daughters Lincoln, 23 months, and Delta, 2 months, told The Hollywood Reporter February 14. The Frozen actress, 34, wed to Dax Shepard, 40, has been a vocal opponent of vaccination skeptics: "I believe in trusting doctors, not know-it-alls."

"It's simple logic," Bell says of getting shots to prevent disease outbreaks.

"Brian will stay out of the spotlight for a little longer," says a source.

Pop, the question! Just a week after anchor Brian Williams, 55, was suspended from NBC News for exaggerating a story about being under fire in Iraq, his daughter, Allison, stuck up for him during a public Q&A with Seth Meyers in NYC February 18. "He's an honest man. He's a truthful man," the Girls actress, 26, gushed, thanking fans for their support. "I can't wait until he's back on TV." As the audience applauded, Meyers swiftly moved past the tricky topic. Says an NBC insider: "Seth is very close with the Williamses and wouldn't dare put her out of her comfort zone."

Clarkson's seventh album, Piece by Piece, drops March 3.

Kelly Clarkson

25 Things You Don't Know About Me

Duly noted! The singer, 32, fills Us in

1. Ever since I was a kid, I have wanted to be the singing and talking voice for an animated film.
2. I want to be on Broadway. I fell in love with NYC when I recently spent two weeks there just for fun.
3. I have abnormally short arms.
4. When I was 11, I was convinced I was going to marry Sully from Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman.

5. I am addicted to tea and coffee. Doesn't have to be caffeinated. I love the whole process of making tea and/or coffee. It soothes me, for some odd reason.

6. My favorite movies are An Affair to Remember, Out of Africa, Gladiator and Talladega Nights: The Ballad of Ricky Bobby.
7. My favorite bakery is called Busy B's Bakery in Burleson, Texas. I've ordered the same thing since I was 10 years old: Bavarian cremes and sausage rolls.

8. I can take a two-hour bath easily, but it has to have bubbles and essential oils.

9. When I was pregnant with [8-month-old] River Rose and so sick, I'd get sucked into the vortex that is YouTube, watching clips of Ellen DeGeneres, Jimmy Fallon and anything Meryl Streep–related.
10. Also while pregnant, I was extremely hormonal and miserable from vomiting. I apparently called my assistant crying, "I'll never be Meryl Streep!" I don't remember this, but I don't think my assistant could make that kind of ridiculous statement up.

11. I love cleaning out my ears. I'm obsessed with Q-tips and ear candling.

12. I secretly want to try out for The Voice to see if I can get all four chairs to turn around.

13. I cannot understand the fact that controlled narcotic substances and alcohol are legal and weed isn't. How many people do you know who have died from weed? My point exactly.
14. I can still remember how peaceful I felt the very first time I saw my husband, [Brandon Blackstock], almost nine years ago.

15. I wanted to be Dixie Carter from Designing Women or Clair Huxtable from The Cosby Show [above] when I was little.

16. I've never liked the beach or lying out in the sun for vacations. I'd rather be in the mountains wrapped up in a blanket on a cold day with a bottle of wine and a great book.
17. My favorite drink in the entire world is called the Milkbone at Fido in Nashville.
18. One day, I will build a secret garden like the one in the novel.
19. I have a horse called The Unicorn because he is perfect and anyone can ride him.
20. Until I was 19, I thought the title of the song was "Secret Asian Man" instead of "Secret Agent Man."

21. I cried for a solid hour on the phone with the creator of American Idol and pleaded to be let out of the contract that said I had to film From Justin to Kelly.

22. Most of the time I love animals more than I love humans.
23. My favorite books are Matilda, Jane Eyre, Persuasion and A Little Princess.
24. I have a concealed handgun license.

25. I hate Brussels sprouts and can't stand that every time I say that, somebody always says, "Oh, but you've never tried mine!" I love and eat every kind of vegetable, but not that one.

WHAT'S IN MY BAG?

Holy haul, Batman! Gotham's Morena Baccarin empties her tote for Us

My son's baby paraphernalia always ends up in my bag," says the mom of 15-month-old Julius (with director husband Austin Chick, 43). "I'll be digging for my phone and find a teething ring!" The 35-year-old, who plays a physician on Fox's Batman prequel (Mondays, 8 P.M.), gives Us a peek inside her Coach purse.

SWEET SANITY

"I always keep a little bit of Lindt or Ghirardelli milk chocolate for when I'm stuck in traffic. And I'm a big fan of Mentos during long plane rides."

SMART MOUTH

"I'm one of those people who has a toothbrush and toothpaste with me at all times. After lunch I'll brush my teeth in a restaurant bathroom!"

STRAND SAVER

"My hair is normally really unkempt — I'll just use my sunglasses like a headband or throw on a felt cloche by Behida Dolic in windy weather."

WHAT A TRIP

"I have two passports because I'm a Brazilian citizen. My husband and I just went to Portugal. It was our first vacation without the baby."

OVERBOOKED

"Right now I'm reading Haruki Murakami's Colorless Tsukuru Tazaki and His Years of Pilgrimage. I have it on my iPad and I'm also carrying a hard copy, which is kind of crazy because it means I bought it twice!"

LOOSE TALK

WHAT THE STARS SAID THIS WEEK

"Sometimes I don't know what the hell they're talking about on Instagram. I had to call her, like, 'What the hell is "on fleek"?'"
On raising 16-year-old daughter Reginae,
Lil' Wayne

"This is so unrealistic because no guy goes down on a girl that much."
On Fifty Shades of Grey,
Madonna

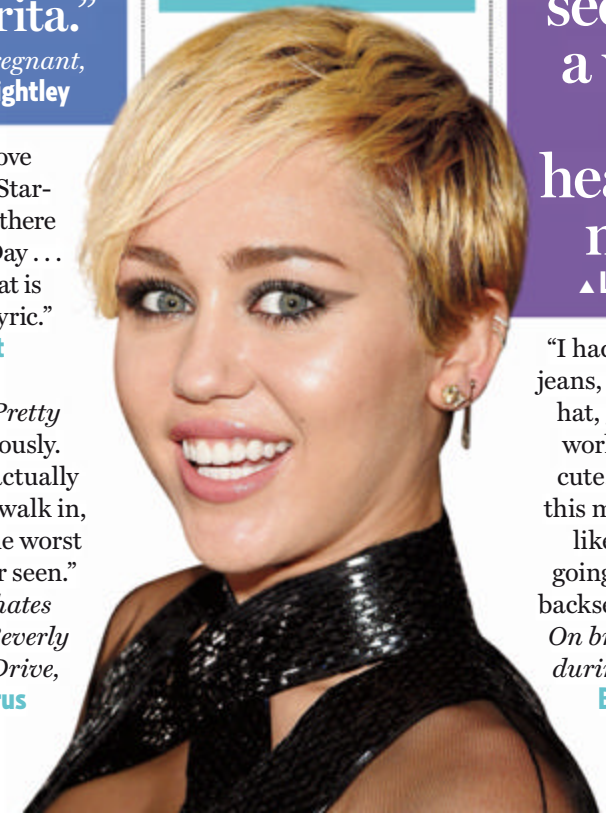

"My doctor was like, 'Any questions?' And I was like, 'Yes! When can I drink, please?!' I just want a margarita."
On being pregnant,
◂ Keira Knightley

"Sending my love to all the lonely Starbucks lovers out there this Valentine's Day . . . even though that is not the correct lyric."
Taylor Swift

"You've seen Pretty Woman, obviously. Well, they are actually like that. If you walk in, they give you the worst look you've ever seen."
On why she hates shopping on Beverly Hills' Rodeo Drive, ▸ Miley Cyrus

"My friend's mom walked in on me butt-naked. I started dancing. If you get caught in an awkward spot, always embrace it."
▲ Alexander Ludwig

"Before I met my husband, I always felt as if the party was happening somewhere else. Once I met him and we had our children, I was like, 'This is where the party is.'"
Julianne Moore

"I cannot see a movie on pot. The number of movies I've seen thinking, This is probably the best I have ever seen! And then I'll see it again sober and think, What was I thinking?"
Jane Fonda

"Scandal has made wine and popcorn seem like a viable, even healthful, meal."
▲ Lena Dunham

"I had everything on — jeans, a sweater, a jacket, hat, gloves, boots, the works. I did not look cute. It was 9 degrees this morning, and I was like: No, fashion is going to have to take a backseat to my warmth."
On braving chilly NYC during Fashion Week,
Brittany Snow

ASHUNTA SHERIFF

LINDSAY ALBANESE

A BIG DAY AT WORK MAY BE AS NERVE WRACKING FOR US AS IT IS FOR A CELEB MAKING A RED CARPET APPEARANCE.
Celebrity makeup pro Ashunta Sheriff and stylist Lindsay Albanese share some tips to get through this all-important occasion with confidence.

Don't Sweat It

Ashunta's trick to keep perspiration at bay: use an alcohol pad under armpits to dry out the skin, then apply foot powder with a brush to stay dry.

Brighten Up

Command attention with a pop of color, suggests Lindsay. It will also give you an instant mood boost.

Let it Glow

Show up looking fully rested with a fresh dewy face. Add shimmer to the cheekbones for a radiant look, advises Ashunta.

Feel Fresh

Wear Carefree® Acti-Fresh® liners. These daily liners are thin and absorbent giving you protection to leave you feeling nothing but fresh and confident in your meeting.

Glanville's stunts, says a show source, "are embarrassing."

BRANDI GLANVILLE

Done With Housewives?

Turned off by her antics, TV execs may dump her

Brandi Glanville could hear "You're fired!" for the second time this year. The ex–Celebrity Apprentice hopeful, 42, may be cut from The Real Housewives of Beverly Hills, sources tell Hot Stuff. "She has stirred s--t to get attention," says a show insider. "It's backfiring." Executive producer Andy Cohen is not pleased with her wine-fueled behavior (see: throwing a drink in Eileen Davidson's face), adds another source: "He thinks her actions aren't a good look for the show." Castmates are irked too. Glanville is feuding with Kyle Richards, Lisa Vanderpump and Lisa Rinna, who labeled her an alcoholic. The single mom, however, insists she may break up with the Bravo show first, says a third insider. "She's furious at how she's been portrayed," shares the source, adding that Glanville is avoiding Cohen's calls. "She thinks they made her look like a train wreck."

Her Sexy Birthday

New Year's Eve, Valentine's Day, birthday! Leonardo DiCaprio and current fling Rihanna celebrated another big moment together February 20. The actor, 40, threw an intimate party to mark her 27th year. Inside a private Beverly Hills home, balloons spelled out her name, a Hello Kitty doll topped her cake and just 75 revelers, including Beyoncé, Jay Z, Robert Pattinson and Jim Carrey, watched her blow out the candles. "Bill Murray tore up the dance floor with Mick Jagger!" a source tells Hot Stuff. Though a DiCaprio pal insists they're just friends, Rihanna and her man "were kissing and dancing together," says the source. And the no-strings-attached duo partied at L.A.'s 1 Oak again the next night. Says the insider: "I hear their hookups are really hot!"

The Bachelor Gets Burned!

In love with two remarkable women, Chris Soules realizes that only one of them truly desires that final rose

BY ERIC ANDERSSON

Of Bischoff (above) and Tilley (right), host Harrison says: "I don't know if there's a downside to either one."

For Bachelor Chris Soules, any morning-after glow derived from his fantasy-suite dates was fleeting. "I was so stressed out," admits the earnest Arlington, Iowa, corn farmer. Faced with two near-perfect finalists — sweet, reserved virgin Becca Tilley and self-assured, bubbly Whitney Bischoff — Soules struggled to decide which woman he'd ask to marry him on the ABC reality show's finale, shot last November. "I'd wake up with my heart beating 7 million miles per hour, hyperventilating and feeling like I couldn't breathe," he told Us at the February 21 taping of The Bachelor: The Women Tell All in L.A. "I had a lot of sleepless nights." Chris Harrison witnessed the hand-wringing firsthand. "He was really a wreck," the host tells Us. "Tears, temper tantrums . . ."

In the end, the decision Soules had agonized over was made for him. When the time came for him to choose either chiropractic assistant Tilley, 25, or fertility nurse Bischoff, 29, at the final rose ceremony in Iowa, one wasn't ready to be Mrs. Soules. "It really came down to a feeling," says a show source. "She just didn't feel it." Sensing her hesitation, Soules, 33, followed his gut and proposed to the woman he believed was all in. (To avoid spoiling the outcome, Us is withholding the name of the winner, who is revealed on the March 9 episode.) "He genuinely fell in love with both women. In terms of the Bachelor not being sure who to pick, they were probably the closest ever," explains the source, "but the runner-up wasn't as into him, so he didn't choose her."

TORN BETWEEN TWO

Soules admits on Women Tell All (airing March 2 at 8 P.M.) that figuring out who stays and who goes was like "throwing darts at a dartboard in the dark." So at the eleventh hour, he turned to Harrison. "If you end up with any of these women, you're going to be happy," the host recalls telling the Bachelor during an off-camera chat. "Now you have to choose the lifestyle you're looking for. They're beautiful, have great bodies. Who gives you that chemistry? When you're in bed at night, who do you think of? When you wake up, who do you think of? That's the girl."

As he watches The Bachelor, Soules tells Us, he's "laughing and enjoying the entertaining aspect of it."

Just one problem: Soules dreamed of Tilley and Bischoff. "Becca and Whitney are women he would have never met in Iowa," says the show source. "They appealed to different sides of him." Eager to wed and have kids — Soules wants up to six of 'em — Bischoff is also career-driven. "Chris is really attracted to that," says Harrison. Meanwhile, his connection to Tilley was more visceral. Explains Harrison: "There was this thing he couldn't let go of."

BECCA'S DRAWBACKS

But every rose — yep — has its thorn. Soules' relationship with

Welcome to Arlington, Iowa!

Jade Roper sums up Soules' hometown in four words. "Tiny, tiny, tiny, tiny!" the contestant marveled after visiting on the February 9 episode (right). What else can the future Mrs. Soules expect?

- A warm vibe. "You know the mailman," says Soules.
- The New Arlington Community Event Center is available to rent for parties when it opens in August. With seating for 390, most residents can come!
- There's one theater in a 25-mile radius. (Playing at presstime: Paddington.)
- Need a prescription, stat? A Fayette pharmacy (a 15-minute drive) delivers!
- "There's no pizza delivery," says Soules. Or even a pizzeria, for that matter. Arlington doesn't have a single restaurant.

> "YOU TALK ABOUT REHAB — THIS PROCESS STRIPS YOU DOWN, RAW, AND BUILDS YOU BACK UP. IT'S ROUGH TO GET THERE."
> HARRISON, TO US

Tilley took the huge step of introducing Soules to her family — the first time she ever brought a man home to San Diego. (Tilley's sister Katie zeroed in on their intense connection. "You had your hand on her knee," she noted on the February 16 episode. "Normally, anybody else, she would have ripped that off!") But after spending all night talking in the fantasy suite the next week, Soules emerged more confused than ever. "We had a serious conversation," he said on the episode. "I really don't know where she stands."

Harrison says that was Soules' chief hang-up. "Becca had a hard time opening up, she's never been in love and she's feeling a lot of things for the first time, so yeah, that probably is a red flag," Harrison tells Us.

Tilley "moved much slower than most," admits the Bachelor. Though the two share what Harrison calls "unexplainable chemistry," the couple didn't discover it until late in the game. They shared their first kiss six weeks into the season . . . and that would be as physical as they'd get. During the fantasy-suite dates in Bali on the February 23 episode, Tilley came out with a shocker: She's a virgin. "If Becca was ready right then and there to commit to Chris, she absolutely would have had sex," says the show source. "But it wasn't a real possibility."

Tilley's lack of sexual experience didn't bother Soules as much as her uncertainty about their future. Yes,

DOUBTING WHITNEY

Bischoff flashed warning signs of her own. Soules told Us last year he sought a woman who's "successful in [her] own right." He found that in Bischoff — but later worried that she might be too successful to want to start over in a town with just 427 people. Though Bischoff assured him she was ready for the life of a farmer's wife and was generous with those three little words, Soules wondered if she'd change her mind at the last minute. Visiting her in Chicago on the February 16 episode only solidified his Soules took lessons to learn his Jan. 26 dance with Jade Roper.

Changing Partners So Soon?

Derek Hough

He's already mastered the waltz! Soules is "99 percent in" for the new season of Dancing With the Stars (March 16, 8 P.M.), according to a source. ABC announced 11 celebrities — including Rumer Willis, Suzanne Somers and Patti LaBelle — on Good Morning America February 24. And multiple insiders say he's competitor No. 12. "It sounds like fun," Soules hinted February 21 when Us asked about casting rumors. He'll face stiff competition now that Derek Hough is back in the ballroom. Though the five-time champ moved to NYC and announced his exit, a source says, "producers worked out his schedule to fly back and forth."

"I can't wait!" Olympian Nastia Liukin tells Us. Her partner: Hough.

concerns. "After seeing Whitney in her element, at her job," he said, "it makes me question whether she can truly see herself in Arlington."

More cause for anxiety: That same episode, when Soules asked Bischoff's sister Kimberly for permission to get down on bended knee — the only family blessing he requested — she shot him down. "There's still four girls that potentially you could see yourself with, so I guess I want whoever picks my little sister to know that she's the only one and I don't want her to be one of four," she told him flatly. "So call me when you have that for her."

Kimberly didn't spare Bischoff from hearing her strong reservations either. Trying to persuade her sister to see the downside of this radically different life, Kimberly noted that Arlington "is a really small town" — an opinion that may have eroded Bischoff's certainty.

THE FINAL ROSE

Needless to say, "Chris was very conflicted toward the end," says a source. "He struggled with his feelings a lot." But three months after proposing with a Neil Lane diamond — and getting a yes from his final choice — Soules has his feelings sorted out. "I'm in love," Soules tells Us, adding that he and his fiancée "are working on establishing a relationship outside of this crazy world we just went through."

They're not free just yet: The duo face another emotional hurdle when they'll see the first runner-up at the live postfinale After the Final Rose special March 9. Don't expect Soules to pull a move à la Jason Mesnick and dump the winner for the runner-up. "Chris is very happy," insists the source. But there's bound to be more than a few uncomfortable moments. "Chris will have to see someone he loves who didn't love him. Will that be an issue for him and the woman he chose?" asks the source. "These are questions that won't be answered until then." US

Women Tell All Revelations!

The February 21 taping of the juicy ABC special (airing March 2) brought tears and confessions

Britt's Makeup Mystery

» Throughout Britt Nilsson's eight weeks on the show, her housemates poked fun at her hygiene habits, or lack thereof. But she came clean to Us at the taping: "Of course I shower! I wash my hair every three days. I'm a hippie, so I was making a joke about needing to shave my legs." As for sleeping in full makeup the night before her 5 A.M. one-on-one date, the L.A. waitress, 27, explains: "I had a sneaky suspicion Chris was going to wake me up. And for my first date with a guy I'm really into, you bet I left my makeup on!" Despite leaving soon after a tour of Soules' hometown, Nilsson confesses to Harrison (above) she's still harboring feelings for the Bachelor: "There are a lot of times when I think . . . things could have ended up a lot different."

ABC (5)

Jade's Rough Ride

"People put a certain label on the kind of girls that choose to pose nude," asserts Jade Roper, who shared her Playboy.com video with Soules on their awkward hometown date. "Just because I did this doesn't mean that I'm not worthy of love." Teary-eyed, the L.A. cosmetics developer, 28, says she doubted his claim that the racy shots didn't influence her elimination. Despite the blow, she isn't over Soules either. "I will always, always care for him."

Kaitlyn's Humiliation

Blindsided. That's how Kaitlyn Bristowe, 29, says she felt when Soules sent her home after the fantasy suites. "It was a tough pill to swallow," the Vancouver, British Columbia, resident says. "I didn't get the respect to be asked to step aside during the rose ceremony to have a legit conversation." And Soules' reason (he says he could have flipped a coin) left her confused and angry. Still, a source notes that the dance instructor's second shot at love may be around the corner — on The Bachelorette. Says Bristowe, "I'm superwilling to do it!"

Kelsey's Hate Mail

After bragging in the February 2 episode that her husband's death made for a "tragic but amazing" story, Kelsey Poe says she felt the backlash instantly. "My social media accounts were flooded with hate," the Austin guidance counselor, 28, tells Us. And seeing her housemates celebrate her departure hurt, she says, although she believes their group toast was "prompted. . . . It didn't seem congruent with the girls I knew."

Ashley's Crazy Talk

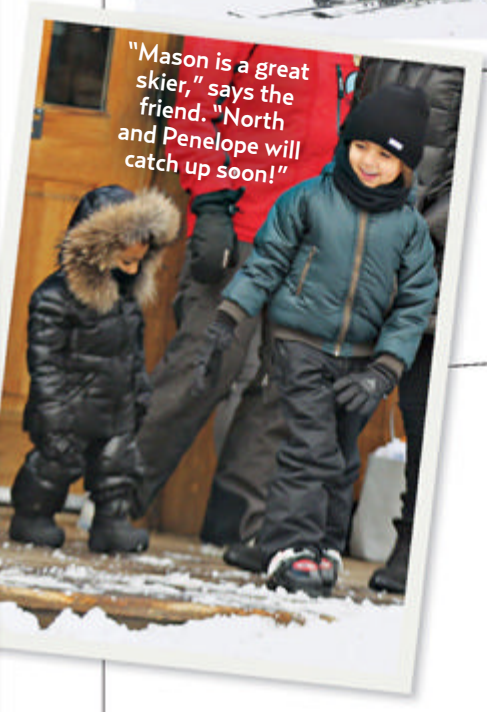

With topics from pomegranates to Mesa Verde, Ashley Salter's nonsensical musings won her this season's "crazy girl" designation. But the Brooklyn hairstylist, 24, chalks up her oddness to boredom: "I had to entertain myself." And though Salter is now dating a classmate from high school, Harrison officially invites her to rejoin the singles scene — on this summer's Bachelor in Paradise!

North was too young for the 5,800-acre resort's ski school. Says a pal, "Kim wants her to learn next year."

Snow bunnies! Kardashian takes her mini-me north for a luxury ski escape to Montana

BY KEVIN O'LEARY

Yes, there was a minor car accident February 21 that threatened to ruin the Montana getaway Kim Kardashian, 34, took with her 20-month-old, North. (Khloé, 30, was driving when they skidded on black ice, prompting Kim to Instagram, "Thank you God for watching over us.") But the rest of the trip was smooth skiing. "Nori loved the snow," says a source close to Kim, who spent three nights at Big Sky's Summit Hotel, featuring five main-floor fireplaces. Kourtney, 35, and Scott Disick, 31, brought their three tots for cousin company. "The sisters grew up taking ski trips," says a family source. "They want to expose their kids early." US

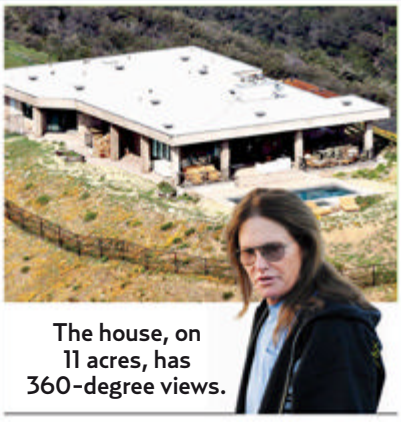

While Kim and Nori played, Khloé and sis Kylie Jenner went heli-skiing for E! cameras.

"She's such a calm mom," the friend says of Kim, who swam in the outdoor pool with her family.

Après snow, they would dine in the restaurant, says a source: "They were mobbed by fans!"

The house, on 11 acres, has 360-degree views.

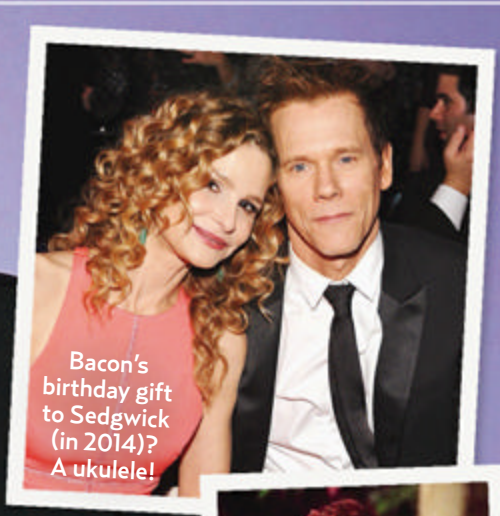

Bruce Makes a Big Move

As police continue to investigate Bruce Jenner's involvement in a February 7 fatal auto crash on the Pacific Coast Highway, the Olympian is getting a fresh start. Jenner, 65, moved into a $3.9 million Malibu home February 20. "His sons Brody and Brandon helped him unload boxes," says a friend. Though the E! star is still in shock over the accident, adds a source, he is going forward with the docu-series on his gender transition: "The bulk of the show is done."

Bacon's birthday gift to Sedgwick (in 2014)? A ukulele!

He calls his FBI agent an "imperfect" hero.

FOOTLOOSE

The Following's Kevin Bacon has reason to be carefree: hot career, loving family — and two Bacon-inspired games! BY BRODY BROWN

Kevin Bacon has to be very careful about bringing work home. His wife of 26 years, Kyra Sedgwick, 49, is a devoted viewer of his Fox drama, The Following — and she doesn't appreciate spoilers. "She wants to experience it as it unfolds," explains Philadelphia native Bacon (a.k.a. obsessive FBI agent Ryan Hardy). "She doesn't watch dailies, she doesn't read scripts, she doesn't want to see anything about The Following until Monday night." For his part, the actor, 56, does his best to shake off the psychological thriller's dark material: "I try to meditate and nap every day." As season 3 kicks off (March 2, 9 P.M.), the dad of Travis, 25, and Sosie, 22, lets Us in on a few clues.

The action picks up a year after Ryan put serial killer Joe Carroll [James Purefoy] back in jail. Has Ryan moved on?
He's turning over a new leaf — happier, sober, enjoying his work and in the right relationship for maybe the first time in his life [with Zuleikha Robinson's ER doctor, Gwen]. And then it all goes south pretty fast.

Has Joe found a way to revive their long-running cat-and-mouse game?
He doesn't show up for the first few episodes, but Joe is still obviously a very big presence. It's kind of like an old girlfriend who starts texting, seemingly innocently, and your current girlfriend is saying, "Dude, no. What's going on here?" And you're like, "No, no, no, she doesn't mean anything." Like it or not, Joe is an important part of Ryan's life. And if you take away the cutting-people's-eyes-out thing, he's a great guy!

One show fan made a STAB ME, JOE CARROLL hoodie. Have your, er, followers come up with anything creative?
Somebody told me they have a drinking game where you take a shot every time Ryan has that concerned look on his face. That's a game for some serious drinkers!

Tell Us about Ryan's next brilliant adversary.
There's a new squad of bad guys led by Theo [Michael Ealy]. It's almost like Joe comes in and goes out with a bang, but Theo is a slow burn. He creeps up your spine.

Is it true you're dialing back the blood and gore?
That's what we keep saying, but the show is in no way tamer. If anything, we're pushing it further.

Ever get Following-induced nightmares?
All the time. I do wonder what going to such a dark space all the time is doing to me, but I can't help it. I'm drawn to high stakes.

You've talked about Kyra directing an episode. Is that in the works?
I would love it. But she's busy producing a show on TNT, Proof, and she just did Brooklyn Nine-Nine. If we're lucky enough to get another season, I've been pounding the table on it. Directing is in her blood. She's always got some kind of suggestion for me — and they're always good!

Six Degrees of Kevin Bacon has been around a while. Anyone else who can assume that mantle?
A ton of people! I think they've actually done a list of people they can play that game with and I'm, like, number 935. US

Twitter trolls! Fashion critics! Old rivals! Wrestler Hulk Hogan settles the score in Hollywood's latest nasty star skirmishes BY APRIL DALEY

★★★ FERN VS KANYE ★★★

Kanye West's first show for his Adidas Originals line did not impress the creator of New York Fashion Week. "I'm kind of over Kanye," former Council of Fashion Designers of America executive director Fern Mallis, 66, said February 18. "The attitude and the agenda is not my style." Two days later, West, 37, addressed her on Twitter, pointing out that "attempting to do clothing has been very difficult" because he had to "overcome" fame and bigotry. "You can step on our dreams," he wrote, "but we won't stop."

THE WINNER IS West. "He has his eye on the ball and doesn't worry about what anyone says."

★★★ CHELSEA VS E! ★★★

Disgruntled former E! employee Chelsea Handler is still bashing the network that canceled Chelsea Lately in 2014. "I didn't care what they had to say because I didn't respect their opinions," Handler, 40, said at the Code/Media conference February 18, adding that Netflix, home of her upcoming talk show, is "like going out with a guy that you're proud to be seen with."

THE WINNER IS E! "You never bite the hand that fed you. If not for E!, I wouldn't even know who Chelsea is."

★★★ IGGY VS THE INTERNET ★★★

Iggy Azalea couldn't take the hate. Home from a Hawaiian vacation February 18, the Australian singer, 24, signed on to find the Twittersphere ablaze with criticism of her bikini body. "Apparently it's shocking and unheard of to be a woman and have cellulite," she tweeted. Dubbing the Web "the ugliest reflection of mankind," Azalea (who sparred with rapper Azealia Banks on Twitter in December) announced she had relinquished her account to her management team. "It is too negative and draining."

THE WINNER IS Azalea. "She's gorgeous. They're nipping at her because she's got momentum."

THE WEEK

★★★ KHLOÉ VS AMBER ★★★

Now this is a true grudge match. After branding Kim Kardashian a "home-wrecker" in 2012 for breaking up her year-and-a-half love affair with Kanye West, model Amber Rose went after Kim's little sister Kylie Jenner (inset) February 13. Accusing rapper Tyga, 25, of leaving baby-mama Blac Chyna for Jenner, 17, Rose told NYC's Power 105.1: "She's a baby. She needs to go to bed at 7 o'clock." Jenner's sis Khloé Kardashian, 30, responded three days later, noting that Rose was a stripper at age 15, yet Jenner "has a career & her s--t together at ONLY 17." Shortly after, Rose, 31, unleashed a tirade of tweets, calling the Kardashians "plastic ass hoes" and bullies while posting memes about Kim's 2007 sex tape. Though Kim, 34, kept silent, West spoke out. "If Kim had dated me when I first wanted to be with her, there would be no Amber Rose," he told 105.1 February 20. "It's very hard for a woman to want to be with someone that's with Amber. . . . I had to take 30 showers before I got with Kim." A wilted Rose later tweeted at West that she wouldn't "snitch" about "things you've done," adding, "I'll leave that up to the Kartrashians to humiliate u when they're done with u."

THE WINNER IS Khloé. "I think all this negative back talk is because Kim has a better bumper than Amber."

OLIVIA'S KILLER GIG

Wilde tells Us her latest role is a real scream

Olivia Wilde doesn't spook easily. As a kid, the star of The Lazarus Effect (out February 27) had a horror library in her bedroom. "I had every Goosebumps story," she tells Us. "I'd charge friends to borrow them." Acting in a fright flick was a lifelong dream. "It looked fun! It goes back to when I was scaring my siblings," says the NYC native, 30, who plays a med student resurrected with an experimental serum only to become a killer. "My sister and I would hang up sheets and put on shadow plays. They involved stabbing a pumpkin with a knife like it was a head." The mom of Otis, 10 months (with fiancé Jason Sudeikis, 39), entertains Us.

Q: Why do you love this genre?
It's escapism with a clear beginning, middle and end. There may not be a happy ending, but there's always a resolution.

Q: Do you jump or yell at the screen when you watch scary movies?
I don't, but I get locked in. I internalize the terror and take it with me in the worst possible way, like with The Shining. No wonder I have a fear of twins!

Q: Feel bad for your character at all?
I tried to understand why she's so angry. When people lash out, mostly, it's out of fear. She was put in a bad situation.

Q: If your life were a horror movie, how long would you survive?
Oh, I'd be the killer, like I am here. I don't want to be the girl running away. I want to be the one chasing everyone!

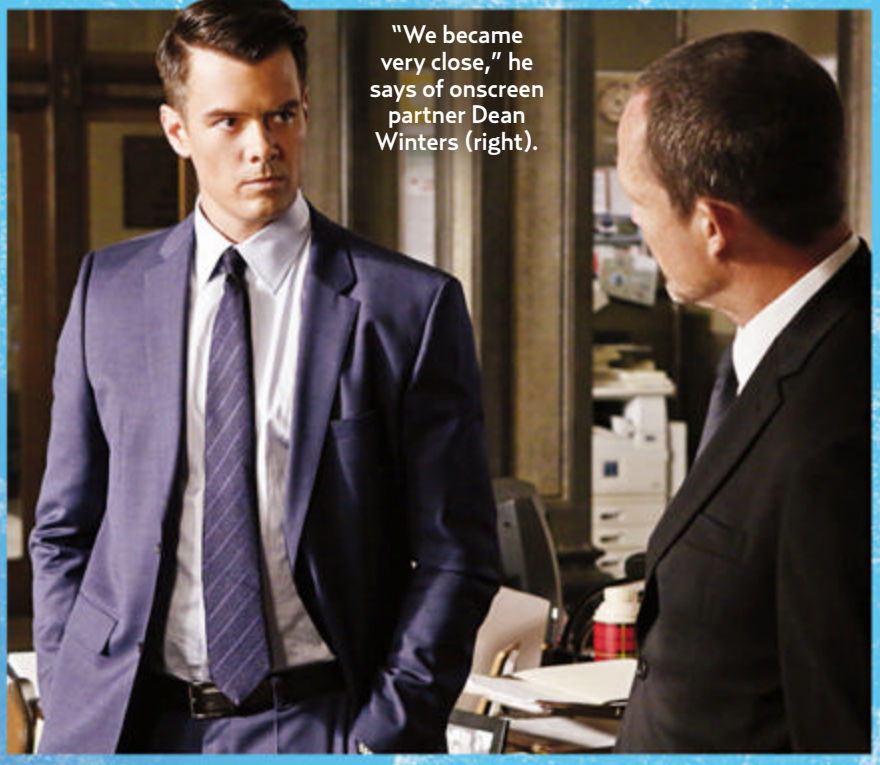

Filming "was a creepy experience," says Wilde (right, with costar Sarah Bolger).

She counts The Blair Witch Project and Child's Play among her favorite fear flicks.

SPECIAL AGENT DUHAMEL

Before tackling his role on CBS's Battle Creek, Josh Duhamel wanted a crash course in crime and punishment. "I grew up in North Dakota, so I think there's a naive quality about me," says the actor, 42. To prep for his part as a drug-busting FBI detective in the cop dramedy (premiering March 1, 10 P.M.), he made a solo trip to the titular Michigan town. "The police took me on a ride-along," Duhamel says. "I got to see how the undercover cops work and what the gang unit deals with. It was tense."

DAPPER DEPUTY Back on the show's L.A. set, his 18-month-old son, Axl (with wife Fergie, 39), took a turn playing Dad's li'l partner. Focus

Will Smith and Margot Robbie will make you look in a slick, amusing caper

It's not easy to pull off a savvy heist flick. This one doesn't entirely succeed — yet has just enough aces up its sleeve to make it entertaining. Will Smith is Nicky, a master con artist who agrees to teach his craft to eager novice Jess (Margot Robbie). Behavior is unpredictable, he intones, so controlling a mark's focus is a must. You know the drill. The rules also serve as pickup lines, as the two soon hook up in hotel rooms. The fling is fleeting: Nicky abruptly dumps her, then three years later, he spots Jess sauntering into a party in a killer red dress — smack in the middle of a high-stakes scheme in Buenos Aires. Let the games begin! Smith and Robbie make better hustlers than they do a red-hot couple: Though she brings the same brand of Wolf of Wall Street naughty feistiness, his monotone seriousness is a buzzkill. What happened to charismatic Men in Black/Hitch Will Smith? That endearing smarminess is missed here. (This is a comedy, after all.) The couple only click when they work their sleight-of-hand magic, from lifting wallets to swiping jewelry. And one con at the Super Bowl amazes. Still, perhaps the film's greatest trick is that hours after the end credits roll, it will completely disappear from your mind.

Meek Agatha (Mia Wasikowska) arrives in L.A. to reconnect with her famous family. To get to them, she becomes an assistant to a faded movie star (Ione bright spot Julianne Moore) and dates a limo driver (Robert Pattinson). THURSDAY 3/5

American Crime

Ortiz gets involved with the wrong crowd.

This crime and punishment drama, a treatise on rushes to judgment, couldn't be more timely. After a white man is murdered, his mother, Barb (Felicity Huffman, deglammed and gunning for an Emmy), presses for justice. Her distaste for "immigrants" clouds the picture — bad news for suspects like bewildered Hispanic teen Tony (standout Johnny Ortiz). Yet Crime is enlightened, not preachy, with no easily pegged villains. It's like an expanded case from Law & Order, with added heft and heartbreak. (ABC, 10 P.M.)

Kemper happily settles in a rented closet.

FRIDAY 3/6

Unbreakable Kimmy Schmidt

★★½☆

Tina Fey's latest sitcom cocreation, a zanier 30 Rock variation, disappoints. Instead of Liz Lemon taking on NYC, it's Kimmy Schmidt (Ellie Kemper), a plucky innocent fresh from 15 years in a cult. Irreverent premise aside, the proceedings are too cartoonish, as when Kimmy gets hired off the street by a vapid one-percenter (Jane Krakowski). She's funny; Kimmy's flat. (All 13 episodes streaming on Netflix)

WEDNESDAY 3/4

Broadchurch

Let down by Fox's Gracepoint? Recover with the superior Brit crime hit that inspired it. While 2013's case ignited instantly, season 2 simmers, taking more time for its colorful characters. Seaside detectives Alec (David Tennant) and Ellie (Olivia Colman) regroup after the killer they nabbed recants his confession. Facing a sharp defense attorney (Marianne Jean-Baptiste, excellent), the hapless pair bicker amusingly, and suddenly Broadchurch plays like a cozy mystery novel. (BBC America, 10 P.M.)

Tennant (left) also protects a local woman from her dangerous husband.

ON THIS WEEK

MONDAY 3/2

RUPAUL'S DRAG RACE

RuPaul (in red) judges 14 queens.

RuPaul's A-list parade of guest panelists, ya mean! Jessica Alba, Kat Dennings, Ariana Grande, Demi Lovato and many, many others comment on the bedazzled men vying for glammest-doll honors. (Logo, 9 P.M.)

MONDAY 3/2

SHAHS OF SUNSET

Mirza

Here's a shiny treat for bling-oholics: The reality show about rich, partying Persians returns, with real-estater Reza Farahan nervous about marrying. Also, meet pampered newbie Asifa Mirza! (Bravo, 10 P.M.)

WEDNESDAY 3/4

CSI: CYBER

Van Der Beek

According to this spinoff, creeps are out there tapping into baby monitors! Patricia Arquette and James Van Der Beek join forces as government cyberanalysts assigned to hacking cases and the like. (CBS, 10 P.M.)

THURSDAY 3/5

DIG

Isaacs

The creator of Heroes helped fashion this global conspiracy drama. Anne Heche and Jason Isaacs play FBI agents and sometime lovers stationed in Israel who investigate a murder linked to a Bible prophecy. (USA, 10 P.M.)

NEW ON VIDEO

The Affair
Season 1

★★★½

Restless hearts, take note: This drama of adultery burns raw and tragic. Noah (Dominic West) and Alison (Ruth Wilson) meet in East Hampton, New York, have hungry sex, and devastate their spouses (Maura Tierney and Joshua Jackson). Bonus: There's a murder! With the action told in flashback from each lover's point of view, The Affair commands full attention, right up to the angsty cliffhanger. (iTunes, $19–$29) JOHN GRIFFITHS

Wilson (with West) won a Golden Globe for her leading role.

Orphan Black
Season 2

The conspiracy continues! Tatiana Maslany again pulls from her dazzling bag of tics to play six disparate clones (con artist Sarah, jittery housewife Alison), most of them out to thwart their evil makers. Round 2 is slowed a bit by Sarah's hunt for her kidnapped daughter (Skyler Wexler). Still, there's no matching Black's swirl of humor and WTF twists. Hello, male clones! (All 10 episodes streaming on Amazon Prime) JG

Jordan Gavaris (left) is an ally of little Wexler and Maslany (as clone Sarah).

Dornan (right) wants to "ravish" Mavor.

New Worlds

Fifty Shades of Grey star Jamie Dornan's romantic journey delivers heat plus period garb! In this Restoration-era four-parter, Dornan smolders as Abe, an outlaw who vexes tyrannical King Charles II (Jeremy Northam) in 1680s England. His star-crossed love, Beth (Freya Mavor), inspires as well, helping Native Americans in Massachusetts. Worlds' vivid heroes and villains shape a rarity: a bodice-ripper with intelligence. (New episodes streaming Mondays on Acorn TV; iTunes, $11) JG

Whiplash

Movies set in a prestigious music school aren't supposed to set your heart racing. Yet that's exactly what makes this taut drama a worthy Best Picture Oscar nominee. Two virtuoso performances lead the way: Miles Teller as an indefatigable drummer, and the masterful J.K. Simmons as a sadistic instructor who pushes his pupil to excellence — and madness. Their relationship culminates in a staggering crescendo. (Amazon and iTunes, $13–$18) MR

Teller pounds the sticks until his fingers bleed.
